

Peer Review Questionnaire

1. Read the opening paragraph. Based on what you've read, write a few sentences here showing your prediction about what the body of the paper will focus on.

2. Read the entire paper and reflect on the prediction that you just made in #1. How does the thesis work with the rest of the paper?

3. Add some specific notes in the margins to help the writer see issues that might keep the paper from reaching its potential. Use your rubric for guidance on this.

4. What do you see as the biggest priority for revising this paper?

5. What are the paper's strong points? (Be specific, including a quote from the paper if necessary)

6. Read the writer's self review attached to the back of the essay and, in a few sentences, address his or her concerns.